About Healthy NewsWorks: Healthy NewsWorks empowers elementary and middle school students in under-resourced areas to become researchers, writers, critical thinkers, and confident communicators who advance health understanding and literacy within their families, schools, and communities. Our programming provides principals and teachers with a proven, core writing program where students learn essential life skills, develop confidence, and make their own unique contributions. We bring curriculum and educational standards to life in an empowering, engaging, and creative way for students.

Our work in the Philadelphia region has been recognized by a variety of organizations. Among our accomplishments, HNW has been presented with GlaxoSmithKline (GSK) IMPACT Award in 2021 and 2018, and the Comcast NBCUniversal Foundation's 2021 Project Innovation Grant Challenge, and The College of Physicians of Philadelphia's Organizational Public Health Recognition Award in 2016. HNW was also invited to share program evaluation data at the American Public Health Association annual meeting (2009), The College of Physicians of Philadelphia's Public Health Day Symposium (2014), and the Pennsylvania Public Health Association meeting (2011 and 2018).
